

The George M. Low Award - Overview

---

---

George M. Low Award

- The George M. Low (GML) Award is NASA's premier quality performance award for NASA's prime contractors and subcontractors. The presentation of the GML Award signifies NASA's recognition that the award recipient has demonstrated excellence and outstanding technical and managerial achievements in quality and performance.

The George M. Low Award - Overview

George M. Low Award

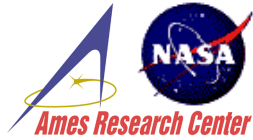

- The George M. Low (GML) Award is NASA's premier quality performance award for NASA's prime contractors and subcontractors. The presentation of the GML Award signifies NASA's recognition that the award recipient has demonstrated excellence and outstanding technical and managerial achievements in quality and performance.
- GML Awards are presented to one outstanding company in each of the following categories and classifications:
  - Large Business: Product*
  - Large Business: Service
  - Small Business: Product*
  - Small Business: Service
  - * A product can be hardware, software, research, and/or technology development.

The George M. Low Award - Overview

George M. Low Award

- The George M. Low (GML) Award is NASA's premier quality performance award for NASA's prime contractors and subcontractors. The presentation of the GML Award signifies NASA's recognition that the award recipient has demonstrated excellence and outstanding technical and managerial achievements in quality and performance.
- GML Awards are presented to one outstanding company in each of the following categories and classifications:
  - Large Business: Product*
  - Large Business: Service
  - Small Business: Product*
  - Small Business: Service
  - * A product can be hardware, software, research, and/or technology development.
- Nomination Scoring Areas
  - Technical Performance
  - Schedule Performance
  - Cost Performance
  - Customer Satisfaction Process
  - Leadership and Quality Improvement
  - Research and Development and/or Innovative Technology
  - Items of Special Interest to NASA

The George M. Low Award - Overview

---

---

George M. Low Award

- The George M. Low (GML) Award is NASA's premier quality performance award for NASA's prime contractors and subcontractors. The presentation of the GML Award signifies NASA's recognition that the award recipient has demonstrated excellence and outstanding technical and managerial achievements in quality and performance.
- GML Awards are presented to one outstanding company in each of the following categories and classifications:
  - Large Business: Product***
  - Large Business: Service
  - Small Business: Product***
  - Small Business: Service
  - * A product can be hardware, software, research, and/or technology development.
- Nomination Scoring Areas
  - Technical Performance
  - Schedule Performance
  - Cost Performance
  - Customer Satisfaction Process
  - Leadership and Quality Improvement
  - Research and Development and/or Innovative Technology
  - Items of Special Interest to NASA
- Nomination and Award Schedule
  - June 2011 - NASA Centers assemble nominations and, as appropriate, submit the names of nominees to other Center GML or Mission Directorate contacts for comment.
  - July 11, 2011 – Final nominations submitted to NASA Hq.
  - August 2011 – January 2012 – GML selection process and selected site visits.
  - February 2012 - The GML Awards are presented to winners and finalists for 2011.

POC: Anthony R. Gross [anthony.r.gross@nasa.gov 650-604-2727